Dear Satvik,

First of all, thank you for your commitment, dedication, and your support to build our organization. You have spearheaded the tech team and lead the team to build our Bharat Dekho website (www.bharatdekho.org) which today has become one of the key communication tools to engage with our partners, funders, and our beneficiaries.

I would like to highlight some of your strengths which have helped us to reach here. Your in-depth understanding of data structures, algorithms, and your coding skills has been a critical lever to drive our initiative. Along with these above mentioned technical skills, I would also like to appreciate you for being an amazing team player, your passion for technology, your aptitude and hunger for problem-solving and being someone who is always open to learning and unlearning in this journey.

Till now, it has been an amazing journey. Through our initiative of Bharat Dekho, we were able to reach and support more than 50,000 migrant labour and currently, we are working towards supporting unemployed teachers. Let this email serve as an acknowledgement for the contribution you and your team has made to make this initiative possible.

I am sure where ever you are in future you will always be acknowledged for the passion and capacity you will carry with yourself. We wish to continue this journey with you and explore many more initiative and discoveries together in future.

Wishing you best,
Abhijit Biswas
